1 次の英文を読んで、あとの設問に答えなさい。英文中の①～⑧は、各段落の番号を示します。

① One day when I was a teenager, my father and I were standing in line to buy tickets for the circus. There was only one family in front of us. There were eight children, all probably under 12 years old. Maybe, they were not (1). Their clothes were not expensive, but they were clean. The children were standing in line, behind their parents. They were holding hands. They were talking about the clowns, elephants and other things they would see that night. Probably that was their first time to go to a circus. (A)It was going to be a memory they would never forget.

③ The ticket lady asked the father, "How many tickets do you want?" He proudly said, "I want eight children's tickets and two adult tickets."

④ The ticket lady told him the price. The man's wife's head (3). The father came a little closer to the ticket lady and asked, "How much did you say?" The ticket lady again said the price. The man didn't have enough money.

⑤ I thought, "He can't tell his eight kids he doesn't have enough money."

⑥ Then, my dad put his hand into his pocket, pulled out a $20 bill and dropped it on the ground. My father picked up the bill and said to the man, "Excuse me, sir, this fell out of your pocket."

⑦ He wasn't a person who asked for money from others, but he thanked for the help in a (4) situation. He looked straight into my dad's eyes, took my dad's hand, picked the $20 bill. He was crying. He said, "Thank you, thank you, sir."

⑧ My father and I went back to our car and drove home. We didn't go to the circus that night, but (B)we weren't unhappy.

2 次の英文を読んで、あとの設問に答えなさい。

Late one night Harry Green was in his car in east London. He wanted to get home quickly. He remembered his wife's words that morning: "Be careful in east London, Harry. There was a story in the newspaper about a dangerous man out there — the police want to catch him. He killed some people with a knife last month ... in east London."

There was heavy rain that night so Harry didn't drive fast. Suddenly he saw an old woman at the bus stop. "She'll get wet in all this rain," he thought. So he stopped the car, opened the window and spoke to the woman: "Do you want me to take you somewhere? You'll get very wet there at the bus-stop."

"Mmm," she answered and got into the car. Harry talked to the old woman and asked her a lot of questions but she only said "Mmm." Then he looked at her more carefully. She had a big bag in her hands — it was old and dirty.

"She's got big strong hands ... and a lot of black hair on the back of her hands. That's very strange," he thought.

Harry started to think: those big hands, all that hair on them ... and then he remembered his wife's words that morning. "What can I do?" he thought. "I must get her out of the car ... and that big bag."

Harry turned to the woman and said, "I think I've got a problem with the lights at the back of the car." He stopped the car and asked, "Can you get out and look at them for me? I don't think they're working."

The old woman got out and walked round to the back of the car. She left her bag in the car next to Harry. He quickly shut the door and drove to the nearest police station. He took the bag in with him — it was quite heavy, too heavy for an old woman. A policeman took him into a small room and Harry told him the story of the old woman with the hair on her hands.

The policeman took the bag, opened it carefully and looked inside. “I think you were very lucky, sir,” he said. “Look at this!” And he showed Harry a long heavy knife.
